Founded in 1976, Sacramento Food Bank & Family Services serves families and individuals in need. Over time, SFBFS expanded to meet growing needs and now offers ten diverse programs at two facilities in Sacramento. The Saca Community Learning Center was built in 2003 and provides families with services such as computer classes in English and Spanish, parent education workshops, complimentary child care, youth development activities and English as a second language course. A staff of 35 employees and several thousand volunteers accomplish SFBFS' mission of assisting those in need by alleviating their immediate pain and problems and by moving them toward self-sufficiency and financial independence. Additional information about SFBFS is available online at www.sfbs.org.
